Living On the Wind: Across the Hemisphere With Migratory Birds. North Point Press: New York, 1999. The evolutionary fabric of life, adapting to gradual geological and climatic circumstance over slow eons, is visited in the daily revelations that come from a careful observation of living things. Perhaps the most easily observed of natural creations (besides our ever abundant fellow hominids) are those found in the class Aves, a flowing tapestry of genetic flux reaching back to that deified ...
