Visions of the Modern City - Christopher Silver, 1996

Visions of the City is a dramatic account of utopian urbanism in the twentieth century. It explores radical demands for new spaces and ways of living, and considers their effects on planning, architecture and struggles to shape urban landscapes. Such visions, it shows, have played a crucial role in informing understandings and imaginings of the modern city.

Science Fiction Cities: How our future visions influence ...

Too often, a city vision fails because people don't feel any ownership of it. Some city plans fail because the most influential stakeholders are not at the table. Campaign groups and businesses, for example, may work together to establish a plan for the future of the city but not involve property owners, transport providers and the city council.
